

Business Issue

A manufacturing company in Great Britain needed to establish a distribution base in North America. Along with the physical location capabilities, a custom web-based order management and billing system was required.

What Growth, Inc. Did

Utilizing existing space, systems and processes, we customized our web-based EZ Order technology to accept orders and invoice individual distributors within the customer's network and provide flexible expansion alternatives and plans.

Results

Within one week, manufactured materials were received, verified and set up for ordering. The customer continues to add distribution points in North America and each location has their own customized ordering and billing process.
